GAR's Last Man Deeply Moved at Comrade's Death

1953
Military Rites Monday
for James Hard, 111, at Rochester, N. Y.

DELUTH, March 13 (AP)—Albert Woolson, last of the 2,675,000 men who wore the Union blue in the Civil War, vowed today he would carry on "the highest traditions of Abe Lincoln's forces until the very end."

He became 106 Feb. 11.

The former drummer boy learned that his only other Union Army comrade, 111-year-old James A.
Hard, had died last night at Rochester, N. Y.

Woolson was deeply moved at Hard's death. He immediately penned a letter of condolence to the immediate family and descendants of Hard.

Woolson is the last of the Grand Army of the Republic, which once counted 408,489 members.

His face deeply lined and his hearing gone, Woolson lives with a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Kobus. He was born in Watertown, N. Y. At 14 he came to Minnesota. He enlisted in the 1st Minnesota Artillery Oct. 4, 1864, toward the close of the war, and was on occupation duty in the South.

At Rochester, N. Y., final tribute Monday with military rites is planned for James A. Hard, who died last night at 111 of a weakened condition that followed the amputation of his right leg.

Hard's body will lie in state at Masonic Temple auditorium from 10 to 2 Monday. Services start at 3 p. m., after which the cortege will pass through downtown Rochester en route to Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Dear Mr. Hall:-

There are in my Grandfather's house in West Acton certain books pertaining to the Grand Army, such as the Ritual Book and records of the Isaac Davis Post, which in our opinion should be now turned over to you. If we are not correct in assuming you are the proper party, then we will appreciate it if you will name the proper custodian, in order that these books and records will get into the right hands.

I would suggest that you get in touch with our good friend, Mrs. Haskins, at your first convenience, and she will show you these records, at which time you may either take charge of them, or indicate to her what ought to be done with them.

Thanking you for any help you are able to render us in properly disposing of these records, and with regards to you, I am

Respectfully yours,
